SHERMAN, '78, V. P.

At the Republican Convention yesterday, Sherman, '78, won an overwhelming victory in the race for the Vice-Presidential nomination. He received 816 votes on the first ballot, over one hundred more than Taft received in the Presidential nomination.

ROCHESTER GAME

The Baseball season of nineteen hundred eight closed on June 6th with a game on the Campus with Rochester. The final score was 6 to 4 in favor of the visitors. It should have been a victory, however, and up to the last inning it seemed that the Varsity was to close the rather unsuccessful season with success. It was thru many and costly errors that the game was lost. The hitherto most steady men on the team seemed on this occasion to be having an "off day."

In the first inning the Varsity were retired in one-two-three order. Rochester, however, by a hit to center and an error by Judson scored the first run. Again, in the second, Hamilton retired without a score, while Rochester did not change the score. Lewis, Smith, and Daly went out easily in the third. Burling, the first man up, struck out. Ramaker was passed by Daly, Morrisey made a hit to left and Harrington reached first on an error by Allen. The next man up, however, sent an easy fly to Judson, which retired the side, leaving the two men on bases.

In the fourth, the Varsity scored their first run. Judson and Clark went out on easy flies. Allen made a pretty hit to left and Gardner scored him with a hit to right, covering three bags. Cody knocked an easy one to Ramaker who fielded it to Harrington with a pretty throw. Rochester sent another man across the plate in this inning, solely thru errors.

Neither side scored in the fifth, but the sixth was a lucky inning for the Buff and Blue. A base on balls, Clark being hit by the pitcher, and an error, put three men on bases. Gardner brought Judson in with a sacrifice, and Lewis the other two with a hit to right. Rochester was unable to score.

Nothing happened in the seventh, or in Hamilton's half of the eighth, but the Yellow made one run. In the ninth the Varsity was unable to score, but Rochester, on a wild throw to first by Judson, scored another run, making it 4 and 4.

In the tenth inning Hamilton went out easily. An error by Smith, and a wild pitch, brought in the first man for Rochester. Allen replaced Daly, Gardner going to third. Things went a little better, but Lawson scored on another error by Smith. The score:

THE TRACK SEASON

With the defeat of Union University on Steuben Field on Decoration Day, one of the most successful Track seasons in Hamilton's history was brought to a close. It was a critical year in this branch of athletics; a winning team and a financially successful season were absolutely essential in order to perpetuate its existence at Hamilton. The department "made good." The first event of the season was the Championship of Oneida County Cross Country Run, in which Hamilton secured the first three places. In February, a relay squad was organized, and after a month of hard, consistent training defeated Union and Rensselaer in the Troy Armory. The time, 3:42, was excellent for an indoor track. During the Spring vacation Hamilton competed with Rochester in a match relay race. We lost thru inexperience in running on an unbanked track.

The Interclass Meet, on May 16th, was an unusually successful affair; the handicap system and medals increased the interest of the College, and the meet brought out some promising material and proved interesting from start to finish.

On May 23 fourteen men were sent down to the R. P. I. meet. We lost in a hard-fought contest against a better team (69 2-3 to 56 1-3.)

The faithfulness of the men in attending practice during the last week of the season was particularly noticeable. The team was determined to win from Union, whose records indicates a stronger aggregation than our own. The decisive victory was a fitting climax to a year of honest, determined effort on the part of every man to make the Track Team of 1908 a credit to Hamilton.

Coach Baxter, by his faithful, intelligent supervision of the department thruout the season, has proved himself to be the most capable track coach that Hamilton has ever had. He accomplished a great deal in six weeks. The College has reason to expect a remarkable development in our 1909 team if he can be secured for another year.

Captain Smith has proved himself to be not only the best track athlete who ever ran for Hamilton, but the highest type of leader for a Hamilton team. His influence towards regular practice and consistent training, and the earnestness with which he has tried to develop track athletics in this College have accomplished well-nigh impossible results. Hamilton is proud of his work.

By winning the 400-yard in 50 1-5 seconds and the half-mile in two minutes flat, Smith has proved worthy of national attention.

The outlook for 1909 is exceedingly bright. Captain-elect J. M. Spencer promises to be a competent and untiring leader. Fourteen point winners will be back, and the entering Freshman class contains several excellent track men. A further development of the relay, which accomplished its object this year, by offering some incentive towards track work in the Winter term, will help in molding the team into shape. We look to Captain Spencer for a winning team!

THE TENNIS SEASON

Except for the Union contests, the Tennis season of 1908 was satisfactory. Tho the schedule was begun with a defeat at Cornell, 6-0, both the Union matches, 3-3, showed a considerable ability among the players. These, however, we should have won. The Syracuse match, also 3-3, was also somewhat of a disappointment, tho a tie in anything with that university is no disgrace to Hamilton. In the second meeting with Cornell the College was treated to the prettiest tennis it has seen. Every match was close and continent of innumerable deuce games and sets. Getman, '11, was again the "anchor" of the team, winning from Marriss, 8-6, 7-5. But the fastest, closest and most exciting tennis ever witnessed on the Hill was the last set of doubles. White and Marriss, of Cornell, defeated Conklin, '09, and Getman, '11, but only after pulling out of many seemingly sure defeats, the final scores being 3-6, 6-4, 8-6. The match resulted 6-1.

Captain Watson, '08, did not play in competition as well as in practice. Day, '11, was intermittently brilliant, his fault, either timidity or indifference. Conklin, '09, captain-elect for next season, played a steady, consistent game, tho a little more brilliant than last year by the acquisition of an accurate Lawford. Smashing lobs from mid-court, tho not so effective as formerly, he still showed to be, along with his alertness, his forte. Getman, '11, tho reluctant to take the net, thereby losing many points, had the most finished strokes of the team. With these last three still in College we have hopes for 1909.

Reportorial

C. ANIBAL, J. H. PARRY

TODAY AND TOMORROW THE STREAM of Hamilton men homeward begins. To the Alumni of Hamilton, Commencement is the calendar's most happy event. Plans are laid thruout the year once more to breathe the infatuation of the Hill: vacation, even business, is sacrificed toward that end. It is the most significant event in our College calendar. It gives grounds for pride and just conviction that at least in the love of Alma Mater, Hamilton towers above the college world. No institution in America is so blessed in Alumni loyalty and solidarity. To the undergraduates, an exhortation to receive these men royally, is superfluous. To the Alumni, we can but wish them welcome and praise them for what they are.

ON THE TWELFTH OF SEPTEMBER, Football practice will begin. We have surpassing prospects for a surpassing team. To success but one more factor is essential—the desire for success. If we have this spirit of get-there, we shall win. The best way to start that spirit is to have every candidate here on the twelfth. The first half of the schedule is severe, the plays and system owe their value to a comparative complexity, and in spite of the spring practice it is most necessary that we have successful ante-term training, instruction, and practice.

AT TWELVE O'CLOCK YESTERDAY the College bell tolled out the happy tidings that Hon. James S. Sherman, of the Class of 1878, had been nominated for the Vice-Presidency of the United States at the Republican Convention in Chicago. With him in the nation's second seat, with Eilhu Root as Secretary of State, and possessed of a strong chance of becoming Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Hamilton plays a part in national history that is enviable. Mr. Sherman's nomination comes as a reward for long and tireless work in the House, where he is classed among the "big four." He has done much as Chairman of the Committee on Indian Affairs, and in many other House committees. His three sons have graduated from Hamilton, and he is a Hamilton man to the core.

UNTIL THIS SPRING, the opinion was prevalent on the Hill that Track must go. But the branch had so staunch support that one more trial was secured for it. This Track has had: it has won. The department now stands on firm foundation and further movement toward its dismissal appears to be beyond our time, at least. Success has won for Track this secure condition, and the success is due in great measure to four personalities: Coach Baxter, Captain H. B. Smith, '08, Manager Butler, '09, and Asst. Manager Renwick, '10. These men generated a spirit of push and progress that carried the team to victory. The first of them, Coach Baxter, has won our respect and gratitude. We can only hope that his services will be procurable next year. With him at the helm and with a preliminary winter schedule of relays, next spring should prove that which is just beginning to be slightly felt—that our rise in athletics has begun.

To the Editor of LIFE:

I am aware that LIFE seldom criticises the inner workings of our Faculty, but I hope this modest "kick" may find room in your columns.

The Juniors are just finishing the excellent American History course. After devoting an entire year to the subject several are disappointed because the class will cover only the history of our country to the beginning of the Sixties. It is an entirely proper cause for regret that our course does not finish the history of the Civil War or any of the subsequent events.

It seems that a proper and simple remedy is at hand. Certainly we could spend less time on the pre-Revolutionary period and the Jacksonian era. The class could also, without a doubt, take longer daily assignments. And the European background of American history could be put into less space than the present lectures use. The reports might be made to bring out some of the more important subjects which would be handled less in class, then by reading a few of these reports in class all would get advantage of the special work on those subjects and still have time for other work.

I hope I am not over presumptuous and I hope my suggestions may be considered by "the powers that be."

'76 SHELLS SECURED

The Committee on Trophies, Prof. Sicard, and Getman and Conklin, '09, have procured the six-oared barge and shell that were used by the Hamilton crew around '76. The shell is the one in which we almost beat Yale, the only thing preventing being that one of our boys caught a "crab." They have been resting on the banks of the Mohawk, where the crew was wont to practice daily. Incidental to the training was a stiff trot (also daily) in and out from Utica. The permanent location of the boats is Commons Hall.

THE 1909 HAMILTONIAN

The anxiously awaited Hamiltonian finally appeared early this week, and has fully met all expectations. Clothed in a neat cover of brown and white, upon which is a cut of the Chapel, the book has an attractive appearance.

The contents must be read; nothing in the way of a review would suffice to give an impression of their merits. While the whole tone is more caustic than usual, there is to be found nothing boresome or tedious in the Literary Department. Most of the "scurfs" are clever; the cuts are good; the workmanship is comemndable thruout.

The dedication is recognized by all friends of the College as a timely and well-deserved tribute to Prof. Squires and his labors for Hamilton.

The price of the book is moderate, and no one can afford to be without at least one copy to remind him of his student days.

Copies may be obtained of Wallace, '09—price $1.50, mailed, $1.75.

THE BASEBALL SEASON

The Baseball season of 1908 far from met the expectations founded on the material on hand at the beginning of the season. Tho the men seemed to know the game, tho individually they promised well, there early developed a lack of self-confidence and a tendency to throw each game away in the first two innings. It was not until the latter half of the schedule that this propensity was overcome. When at last it was entirely eliminated, the Colgate and Rochester games determined the season a success, tho partial and elicited the old sigh: "What might have been."

The first game, with U. F. A., was so decisive a victory, 11-0, that anticipations seemed realized. Nor did the Utica State League game dim the prospects, tho we lost 11-1. The St. Lawrence contest was prevented from being a defeat by an opportune shower. Hobart was decided in the last inning to be in our favor, 9-8. At Colgate we threw away our chances in the second inning, tho the final defeat of 8-5 was more creditable than the abortive attempts in the next game on the Campus against Union, to whom we capitulated with the score 9-5.

Then the Western trip, and thoro demoralization, as usual. Syracuse and our errors swamped us, 19-0, Hobart piled up the disgrace, 8-1, and in spite of a serious endeavor at exoneration, Rochester won 5-2 in a very fast contest. The Eastern trip was but little better than the Western, tho the intensity of disgrace took inverse order. The first game was satisfactory. Tho Wesleyan defeated us 7-1 they far from out-played us. Pratt's pitcher struck out twenty men and won 6-2. A troupe of unnerved players enacted a comedy of errors called "11-0" at Schenectady the next day. This was the worst of the lamentable exhibitions and the last. Then, Colgate. With little to show in records, the team and College went up against the down-valley rival with all the zeal that tradition could demand. Not in their generation had the Maroon been trailed. But thru those nine fiery, howling innings the spirit of the victorious by-gones pervaded the Hill, and Colgate kneeled to the overwhelming odds. The result is a baseball in the Trophy case, somewhat grassy, somewhat pounded, but bearing the tale: "Hamilton 6, Colgate 4." The narrative of the Rochester game is in this issue. We won credit, if not victory.

Murphy as coach was not entirely satisfactory. Tho he knew baseball as a veteran professional, he could successfully impart but little of the knowledge. The fault, however, was equally with the men. They gave him indifferent backing, which they would justify by lack of confidence in his ability. Team of 1909 beware. Captain Clark was excellent. He knew the game, he knew the men, but he did not know surely he knew either, and in this lack of confidence, the major fault of the entire team, was his only fault. He was competent and impartial. Cody and White, '08, were good batters, but as Seniors did not help matters as they could have. White, '08, was consistently efficient behind the bat and threw well. Cody could not throw, and was not a sure receiver at first until too late in the season. Lewis and Smith, '08, were good fielders, but could not bat. The more satisfactory half of the team was that which remains for next season: Judson, '10, Captain-elect; Hatfield, '09, Sarles, '10, Allen, Daly, and Gardner, '11. Judson is a good short-stop, a scientific hitter, and has versatile knowledge of the game. Hatfield is fair at fielding and hitting. Allen was up in the batting and fielding averages, Daly is effective in the box. Gardner hits and fields exceptionally. With proper and careful selection of a coach, and with a proper spirit among the men, the season of 1909 will warrant a more optimistic review than the season of 1908.

JUDSON, CAPTAIN

At a meeting of the Baseball team held last week, James Dean Judson, '10, of Vernon, was unanimously elected Captain of the 1909 team. The honor is well deserved and met with the hearty approval of the College. For two years Judson has played a steady, consistent game at short-stop—a good man in his position or out. Under his direction the prospects are bright for next year.

CONKLIN, CAPTAIN

W. D. Conklin, '09, of Oklahoma, has been elected Captain of next year's Tennis team. Conklin has thoroly demonstrated his ability on the courts and is a worthy successor of Captain Watson.

PROGRAM OF GAYETIES

Commencement Week will be socially as gay as ever this year. On Monday night the Beta of Sigma Phi will give a dance, and Tuesday the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity will entertain. On Tuesday also the other fraternities will entertain informally. On Wednesday, the Alumni hold the center of the stage, and on Thursday the Senior Ball brings the grand climax of the College year.

THE JUNE "LIT."

The June issue of the Lit. opens with two valuable contributions from Alumni. "Old Greek," by S. A. Sherwin, '67, is a vivid little anecdote of that quaint and lovable personality which has so profoundly influenced the graduates of other days. A. N. Brockway, '57, furnishes some "Reminiscences" filled full with human interest. They are written in a charming and desultory fashion, and for a few brief moments enable the reader to live in the College of over two generations ago. It is such articles as these which have made the Lit. worth while—a thing not to be thrown aside after a hasty glance. Few other college publications have the entertaining memorabilia which have from time to time brightened the pages of the Hamilton Lit. and made it a link between the old and new.

"On the Borderland" is an undergraduate 'thriller' dealing with dreams, psychic phenomena and portents. The story is well written, however, and is fairly successful in achieving a properly weird and horrible atmosphere without becoming ridiculous. The conventional spinal chills may possibly accompany its perusal. It has a somber conclusion, as has also the story following, which is entitled "Paradise Lost." "Decidedly bold" is probably the proper term to apply to the theme of this narrative, which is written in a mature and superficially clever etyle. One may question the good taste in inserting a story of this character in the Lit. and dislike its morbid sentimentality, at the same time confessing that it is not bad as a literary effort.

"The Reformers" is a bit of acceptable, if rather mediocre verse, and the "Baseball Soliloquy" is a fairly amusing parody. "The Spectral Spectator furnishes the necessary leaven of nonsense.

The other departments are excellent, and the editorial urging more men for Hamilton is more than timely. It is both startling and depresing to an alumnus to learn that "part of Carnegie and almost all of North is empty." In discussing so serious a subject the editor may be excused for forgetting about his verbs. Several other errors, chiefly typographical, have crept into the issue.

Alumniana and Necrology, less voluminous than formerly, continue to show the painstaking and thoro work which Prof. Squires devotes to this rather thankless job. Needless to say, that to Alumni these departments are the Lit.'s chief features.

LIFE BOARD

At a meeting of the LIFE Board on Thursday, Mitchell and Gouge, '11, were elected on the basis of work done, McMath, '10, was elected Manager to succeed Butler, '09. The election to the latter office at this time of year instead of Winter term is an innovation which probably will be a permanent custom.

1909 SENIORS

1909 celebrated its Seniority last evening in proper form. A bass drum, horns, and lusty voices announced that they were on the War Path in no dulcet tones. The Professors were made to accede to their war cries and even the Big-Chief himself was an object of their whoops. The rampage was ended in a war dance and the inhumation of their old god, Juniority, on a knoll near the foot of the Hill. Honest Injuns!
